Guided tour in the Geissel Gardens

A short walk through the town

Paderborn has numerous places of interest. The inner city itself has more than 20 historical buildings. Get to know the most important ones by following the route suggested here; this walk takes approximately one and a half to two hours. For more details on Paderborn's places of interest turn to pages 6 and 7. The numbers refer to the inner city map at the back of the brochure. You will find the same numbers on the boards of the information and guide system for pedestrians in the town centre.

Your walk starts where the town's history itself began: at the (1) Karolingischen Königspfalz (Carolingian Royal Palace) the place where, in the year 777, Charlemagne held the first Franconian Imperial Assembly on Saxon ground. Only the foundation walls of the palace's former hall are still visible. Behind it stands the reconstructed Ottonian Royal Palace dating from the 11th/12th centuries, which houses the Imperial Palace museum.

The acoustic within the Chapel of St. Bartholomew is extraordinary. Enter the (2) Dom (Cathedral), 11th –16th century, by the northern portal, known as the Red Portal. The door to the left of the chancel (the so-called Hasenkamp) leads you into the cloister. This is where you will find the Drei-Hasen-Fenster (Three Hares' Window), one of Paderborn's emblems. If you leave the cathedral via the Paradise Portal on the south after you have visited the crypt, immediately on your right you can see the Diocesan Museum. Opposite, on the other side of the market square is the medieval (3) Gaukirche (Gau Church). If you now walk past Neptune's Fountain heading slightly to the right through a narrow alleyway (Schildern), you will come to the magnificent (4) Rathaus (Town Hall). Directly in front of the Town Hall there is still one of the three old wells from which the people of Paderborn used to draw water.

The Square in front of the Town Hall leads directly onto the Marienplatz where you will find the Tourist Information Centre and next to that the (5) Heising'sche Haus (Heising House). Continue past the Mariensäule (Column of the Virgin Mary) built in 1861 and after crossing the road 'Am Abdinghof' you reach the (6) Abdinghofkirche (Abdinghof Church) with its twin Romanesque towers. At the foot of the Abdinghof Church is the western part of the (7) Paderquellgebiet (Pader Springs) with three of the Pader's five main tributaries.

The mighty cathedral tower

Walk past the Abdinghof Church and turn left into 'Michaelstraße'. Two baroque buildings are situated here on the right hand side. In the Geissel Gardens, is the former (8) Domdechanei (Cathedral Deanery) and on the left lies the (9) Michaelskirche (St. Michael's Church). On the far side of the (10) Geisselschen Garten (Geissel Gardens), a conservation area encircled by two further arms of the Pader, is the small street 'Auf den Dielen'. The carefully restored timber framed houses are well worth seeing.

'Auf den Dielen'

The most beautiful timber framed building is, without doubt, the (11) Adam-und-Eva-Haus (Adam and Eve House) in adjacent 'Hathumarstraße'. Continue on via 'Krämer- and Heiersstraße' and past the Jewish Memorial until you reach the (12) Busdorfkirche (Busdorf Church) with its remarkable cloister. Now follow 'Kasseler Straße' until it joins the 'Kamp'. The extended corner house is the (13) Erzbischöfliche Palais (Episcopal Palace). Then pass the modern shopping centre, housed in the Libori Gallery, and the site of the old post office, built in 1720, on to the (14) Libori-Kump (Liborius Fountain) with its statue of Paderborn's patron saint. Connected to the complex of buildings, the Theodorianum Grammar School with its (15) Theologischen Fakultät (Theological Faculty) is the recently restored (16) former Jesuitenkirche (Jesuit Church). Further historical buildings in the inner city worth visiting are the (17) Franziskanerkirche (Franciscan Church) in 'Westernstraße', the (18) Liborikapelle (Liborius Chapel) on 'Liboriberg' and the baroque (19) Kapuzinerkirche (Capuchin Church).

From the Tourist Information Centre on the 'Marienplatz' you can buy the brochure "A short guide to the old city" at a price of 1.25 €. This brochure gives a detailed description of all places of interest.

Feel the pleasant contrast between shopping, excitement and relaxation in one of Paderborn's green parks: the Pader Springs are only a few moments away from the pedestrian zone. And to finish off, add an efficient periphery with a multitude of diverse facilities to this dynamic city: every larger city would be proud to possess.

Weekly markets

Twice a week, on Wednesdays and Saturdays, a market takes place in the shadows of the cathedral tower. Fruit, vegetables, potatoes, flowers, bread, confectionery, meat, fish, southern specialities, honey – there is hardly anything edible, which cannot be purchased here. And best of all, everything is of excellent quality. In addition to professional market suppliers there are also a host of small businesses and private individuals who sell fruit and vegetables, grown in their own gardens, directly to the consumer.

On Fridays, the cathedral square hosts a "palaver market", on which mainly highly nutritious products and produce from ecological cultivation can be bought. Additional weekly markets – slightly smaller than the one in the inner city – are held in the suburbs: Schloß Neuhaus on Thursdays and in Elsen on Fridays.

Food and drink

When going out in Paderborn, eating and drinking well, the selection is large and the choice difficult. Whether you prefer plain home cooking, Asian, American, southern or gourmet food, almost everything your palate could wish for exists. Even for those who do not choose to feast themselves, but would rather find a nice little pub will not be disappointed in Paderborn's inner city: most cafés are located between 'Westernstraße', the 'Domplatz' (cathedral square) and the Pader Springs. For pubs – whether traditional inns, old-fashioned student taverns or straightforward pubs, whether trendy, adventurous gastronomy or cocktail bar – just look around in the area between the Kisau, Mühlen-, Hathumar- and Heiersstraße as well as on Kasseler Straße and the Kamp. Additional restaurants worth mentioning are in other parts of the town: in the Baroque Gardens in Schloß Neuhaus, in Elsen, in Sande or in the Haxtergrund.

For a complete list of recommended restaurants in Paderborn visit the Tourist Information Centre. We will be glad to give you some ideas and also reserve a table for you.

Conferences and meetings

With the most modern technology, various sizes and types of room, accommodation ranging from standard to first class and good transport connections – Paderborn has everything necessary to ensure successful meetings, seminars, conferences and congresses. In addition for an attractive, entertaining extra-curricular programme there are numerous places of interest, such as Paderborn's museums and galleries, the cultural, gastronomic and leisure time activities available plus the variety of places to visit in the neighbourhood offer an abundance of options. A list of Paderborn's range is contained in the brochure "Kongress- und Tagungsguide". We will be pleased to forward it to you. See also: www.paderborn.de/tourismus (Tagungen und Kongresse).
